

FASHION WEEK

Reality stars given a ‘hard time’ about attending Fashion Week

By Mara Siegler

February 17, 2015 | 9:47pm

Phillip Bloch and Porsha Williams attend the Vivienne Tam fashion show.

Photo: Getty Images

Reality stars are being blocked from the front row at Fashion Week by publicists and show runners, says stylist Phillip Bloch.

“They’re giving reality girls a hard time,” he told us at the Vivienne Tam show at Lincoln

Center. “They really just want the young, ingénue-y girls; you may not even know their names.”

Asked which stars have had issues, Bloch mentioned Atlanta “Housewife” Porsha Williams (who was seen with him at shows for Alice + Olivia and Vivienne Tam), adding, “I have heard quite a few names. They gave people a hard time about seats . . . There’s a weird push-me, pull-you feel to it. Yet you bring somebody and everybody is taking pictures. It’s good for the audience, it’s good for the energy.”
